

Matej Buzgo, MSc has experience in development of drug delivery systems by electrospinning, centrifugal spinning and electrospraying. His main interest is in preparation of core/shell nanofibers by needleless electrospinning and centrifugal spinning for drug delivery of proteins and small molecules. He is coauthor of >25 scientific publications, >5 national and European patents and leads one European and one nation grant projects.