

Today space is more than ever the frontier for technology and innovation. Space is developing a new economy dimension, based on services, new materials, big data, provided at lower cost and faster turnaround. I will quickly review some of the directions Space Economy is heading towards.